Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: on page 8 line 24, figure 1 displays a 45 second graph, not a 50 second graph. On page 8 line 34- page 9 line 1, both the high and low vertical lines are stated as indicating the end of inspiration. One of these is incorrect.

Appropriate correction is required.

Abstract

This application does not contain an abstract of the disclosure as required by 37 CFR 1.72(b). An abstract on a separate sheet is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1 line 2, "provisions for supplying" is vague and indefinite language. It is unclear if the applicant intends to invoke 112 6th using "provisions for" instead of "means for". Clarification and correction is required. In addition, the use of "construed" in lines 4 and 8 is vague and indefinite.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3761

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Phillips-5438980.

Phillips discloses a respiration phase detection circuit wherein the circuit produces two signals representative of the gas flow along a time line. The signals are processed by being compared to determine transitions which correlate with transitions from one phase to another. The processor then sends a signal to the ventilator to alter the gas pressure depending on the phase of respiration- see col. 2 lines 17-27.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sullivan, et al.-5199424.

Sullivan discloses a device for monitoring breathing during sleep and controlling a CPAP device. In col, 5 and 6, signals from a pressure transducer are processed, amplified, filtered and conditioned to separate waves of interest. Breathing and flow rates are derived from the pressure wave. The processed signals are recorded as a time chart. The flow rate is compared to a base line level, or the integrated volume of air is averaged over a number of breaths to provide a base line these signals are used to change the pressure delivered to the patient by the CPAP device.
